Lap Band at First

Tasha commented that she was initially scared in the beginning, but the weight loss results are now coming true for her. She investigated the lap band procedure for nearly a year and notes that the time spent doing just that was well worth it.

Given Why Lap Band Worked for her, Tasha's energy level now allows her to walk more effectively down the street or around the mall. She also now enjoys attending her son's basketball games, something that was more difficult to do prior to lap band surgery when her energy level was so low.

Tasha's journey to a lap band surgeon started after she saw and heard ads about the lap band procedure. She said her insurer turned down the procedure several times, but then approved it, allowing her to move forward.
